

To all that it concern,

I have heard of the perverse thinking that our country continually brings forth to stop the word of God. All it takes is time, and that you have. But I am going to say my part, and I know that no matter what I say, or what we do, it is ultimately up to God to choose what is to happen. Even though you and I know that you have already made up your mind, and only need time to implement it. We have had great people speak against the crimes of our country, and as of now that hasn't stopped you or any other organization.

The United States Constitution clearly states that you will be breaking the law when you implement a regulation, or a tax, or a hindering factor of any kind to a religious establishment. Amendment 1 "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances." Saying that, to create any form of establishment that would hinder the religious beliefs of the public is clearly in the wrong. I say to you, would you stop the peaceable assembly of the Islamic faith? Or the Mormon Faith? Or the Catholic Faith? Or the assembly of secret organizations, such as the Masons? Or the Assembly of the Wiccan faith? By God you would not, that would create a problem with almost every country in the world, and every person in the United States. But you would hinder the thoughts and beliefs of which this country is founded, and based, by which all of our laws at one time were created. To hinder that would be the same as disregarding the same law that the United States has founded.

Would you stop the press, or hold information from them that regard the public? Of course not, it would be breaking the law, but you can create an organization that restricts the abilities of another organization that has done nothing wrong, but speak there mind of what the Bible states, there faith. This is a time of grievance for those that believe in the Bible. By forcing a group of people to influence another group that has no connection or understanding of our faith and belief, is wrong. It would be the same as me forcing my religion on you, but of course in your thought it is not the same thing, but a totally different matter. At one law at a time you are silencing those that have done nothing but whisper in our country, when we should be shouting.

Our faith and beliefs have always disagreed with the public. To be sexually promiscuous and to have sex with a partner of the same sex is wrong. That is my right to believe and my right to uphold as I see fit, for the law gives me the right to think what ever I may. But, if you could you would control that too. To kill a child is wrong, is it not? To kill an adult is wrong as well, and slowly but surely to kill animals is getting there too. But it is not the same when you kill an unborn, living breathing human. This is wrong, so to allow an organization to say other wise on a Christian programming would undoubtedly go against my faith and my God. So you are hindering me from my religion once again. If you do not believe what a broadcasting or any other station states you can change the channel, as I do on a daily basis when there is something on that I don't want to hear or even watch on T.V. So what differentiates turning a rock station to a rap station because I don't like the music any different from changing it from a Christian channel to what ever you please?

I know that you disagree, because you say that this regulation affects everyone. But not everyone disagrees with the public thought. My faith states specific rights and wrongs, and if I accept to listen to a broadcasting that does not share the same thought as the public that is my right. You are now going to take that away and give it to the public to decide what is to be put on that broadcasting. So you are now forcing me to listen to a propaganda put across by the public which I was originally trying to avoid. I cannot force my religion on you any more than you can yours, but you are not trying to fight for yours as I am. Most of America, including many that call themselves Christian, accepts public thought in whole as good. I know, even if I can't prove it to you, that they are not, and would commit the same crimes as any one else if giving the right chance. We are all evil at our base. So to stop, or hinder, an organization from freely speaking is as sick as committing a crime.

On the same tract, there are already many organizations and broadcasting networks that put filth across the air daily. People have fought to have these broadcastings removed, but because of the same people that are trying to take my stations have fought for theirs and have withstood their battle. They have prevailed and are no longer under the same regulations as this proposal is putting on to us. How can it work for one, and not the other? So again, it shows that you are trying to change, or prohibit a specific organization from freely speaking there minds, as so many others do. We expect no greater law, but we also expect no less.

I have stated my peace, and I know that God's will is going to be done. Whether it goes through, or not, we both know what you had to do to get this proposal passed. I have lost faith in my country when it comes to the rights of the people, and the writing of the law. We are a Republic, not a democracy which we so call ourselves. A republic for which it stands, being that we have certain unalienable rights which cannot be taken from us. Such as the freedom of speech, and religion. A democracy allows the mob to change and control law. Doing this takes away those unalienable rights which I have, and puts it in your hands. You, who enforce rules to gain what ever means you seek.

I hope that what I have said has startled you. I hope that it has made you mad and upset. At least I know that what I said hit a nerve, even though it may not in truth. My faith is important to me, and I regard the right to express and listen to it freely without all of the imposing factors. With this proposal you are going to take the very freedom that you so call yourself as free. After this, what next? To speak in public? Why not? If this goes through, law has no conscience to you, and you will still do what ever you have set out to do anyway.

Thank you for listening to my part. And I hope, and pray to God that you seek the truth, and not a means to an end.
